PIONEER WASHER.
E. G. BOLTER,
AGENT FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY.
THIS CELEBRATED WASHING MACHINE IS now for the first time introduced to the Oregon public. It is unrivalled for its simplicity, durability and its rapidity and ease of its action. Washing the dirtiest clothes perfectly clean in from five to ten minutes, with but slight labor, and lasting, with proper care, for ten years. The wear and tear of clothing in washing by this machine is vastly less than by any other known process of washing. It does its work by a reverse motion in forcing the water through the clothes.
It having a tight cover, the steam thus assists materially in cleansing the clothes, and also avoids the inhaling of steam from hot suds.
This Machine captured the Special Premium at the California State Fair, and all that have used it pronounce it an invaluable adjunct to aid housekeepers and families and washing men and washing women.
It has been extensively introduced throughout the State of California, and receives the universal commendation of all who have used it.
THE COUNTY RIGHTS, now unsold, will be sold at a bargain if applied for soon.
For Reference, enquire at the Mansion House, and of John Wilson,

The Boat leaves Portland Wednesdays and Saturdays at 1½ A. M. Returning leaves Astoria Thursdays and Mondays at 6 o'clock A. M.
Every person purchasing a Passenger Ticket will be presented with one of 900 Prize Tickets, to be drawn on the 1ST DAY OF AUGUST, 1867, for the following Prizes:
Steamer U. S. GRANT, to be divided into 3 shares,
ONE BLOCK OF LOTS IN EAST PORTLAND, divided into 5 shares, or one lot to the share, viz. Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, Block 17, opposite the "New Columbian" Hotel, and at the termination of the proposed Suspension Bridge,
ONE GOLD WATCH, worth $100;

The Steamer is 54 tons burthen, 32 horse-power engine, propeller wheel, draft of water 6 feet. She is being thoroughly refitted and refurnished as a Passenger Boat. The Boat will be delivered in perfect order, free from all incumbrance, and Warranty Deeds made for the real estate, to the persons drawing the same. Tickets can be had of C. P. FERRY, in Portland, where the money will be left on deposit till the prizes are drawn and delivered.
Any person having a claim against me, and wishing a ticket, can get an order for one by calling on me on board the boat. The person drawing the gold watch can have $100 in gold coin, if preferred.
C. P. FERRY, Broker, R. J. LADD, ex-Sheriff, AL. ZNIBER, U. S. Marshal, and C. S. SILVER, Merchant, of Portland are the Committee and Judges to direct the Drawing of Prizes. The Prizes will be drawn before the 1st of August, if all the tickets are taken before that time.
☞ The above liberal offer is made to the travelling public to enable the subscriber to pay his debts, and not with any reference to speculation, as all the property is valued at much less than its cost, (the Steamer alone having cost $11,000), and the price for carrying passengers to Astoria being much less than the usual fare.

General Hancock's Testimony before the Indian Commission.

The following contains some of the interesting points in Major-General Hancock's testimony before the Commission at Leavenworth upon the present Indian difficulties. In reply to General Sherman, General H. said: All the Indians of the plains I consider hostile, I do not know that the Comanches are actually so, although three of them have been killed while committing depredations, some bands of the Comanches have captives, for whom they demand a ransom, which we have refused to give; we have disbanded them unconditionally, in this war, the Kiowas, although hostile, have no immediate grievance, at least they have represented none. The General says he has seen no time when it was absolutely safe for the people to cross the plains. He avers that the Indians are more hostile this year than formerly, and says he has never known any period when the war was so general, and conducted with so much spirit and ingenuity. If our troops should be withdrawn from the Indian country, no white man would ever go through. It would amount to an abandonment of the territory. It is believed that not a man would remain in Colorado.

The General is of opinion that the Indians would not cease to be hostile if the troops were withdrawn. They would then claim that they had gained what they had started out for, to cut off those roads. There would be no peace until the roads were stopped again. They gave us notice that they intended to commence war in the spring. General Hancock has their statement, which was sent to commanders of posts, saying that these posts must be abandoned in the spring, and that the Pacific Railroad must stop at Junction City, as they intend to fight. We cannot have peace on the plains so long as the Indians are allowed to hunt between the Platte and the Arkansas. It is impossible to control the young men. The chiefs and principal men are nearly all desirous of peace, except under some great grievance. The young men leave their villages and commit depredations on some pretense. There is no question but that the old hunters receive the stolen horses from the young men.

General Hancock in reply to a question whether he supposed it possible that the Indian agents, such as Wynkoop and Leavenworth, can be trusted with the discretion of issuing goods to any part of these people, said: "I do not know about Wynkoop; I think the trouble with agents is that they are all, probably, connected with trading interests, and think that such persons ought not to be trusted with such distribution. It would not be a safe thing with an honest agent to discriminate between the friendly and hostile Indians." There was one case, in October, 1866, where arms were furnished to the Indians by the agent, after being officially notified that they were inclined to hostility. Mr. Bogy, the Indian Commissioner, gave authority to sell arms, after he was notified that the Indians were hostile, and defended the right. The universal testimony is that the Indians are well armed with pistols and rifles.

The Indians always pierce the bodies of white persons they kill with arrows. The friends of persons killing him, all put an arrow into him. In ambuscades they use arrows. The principal men are armed with fire arms, and the others with bows and arrows. The Indians do not fight often, unless they are of very superior numbers. They do not fight without an advantage. Whenever they find their enemy prepared they give up. The Indians are now carrying on the war with all the new improvements. They have field glasses. We found a glass at Fort Wallace. They came up like a regiment of cavalry, and appear like a regular regiment. The chiefs stand with a mirror and throw reflections as signals when the men obey. They have signal men all around. On one occasion I was with Captain Smith, a guide and interpreter. There was an Indian brilliantly arrayed making signals. Captain Smith pulled out a small mirror from his bosom and flashed it on the Indian, who became frightened and ran away.

General Hancock during his examination gave a minute account of the burning of the Cheyennes and Dog soldiers' camp on the Pawnee fork last April, the facts of which have been repeatedly published. In reply to a question as to the precise object of organizing and going out last April, the General said: "That expedition was the result of an aggregation of circumstances. In the first place there was a rumor that the northern Indians had come down on the Smoky Hill. Gen. Sherman thought they were hostile and ought to be proceeded against. The policy was to pursue them and if friendly, to feed them. That was the order. The evidence seemed to be that they were not disposed to war. I afterwards concluded that as the agents had failed to demand the murderers from among the Indians, that I would make the demand, and where the evidence was conclusive against them, I would take hostages if the demand was not complied with. But when Congress met, the action of the Senate was so positive in regard to the interference of the military that Gen. Sherman gave me an order, in writing, not to go into these old matters as I had intended to do, and as I notified the agents that I would do. This course it was thought would intimidate the tribes who were hatching conspiracies, and would confirm the so who were friendly disposed towards us. The se are the motives with which I went out. I was ordered to leave the old matters to the agents whose demands I would enforce if necessary. It was not an advantageous thing for me, but I went in the interest of peace. I told the chiefs I did not come to fight them and that I would not make any demands of them unless the agents asked for the production of a culprit and they should refuse to give him up. I had no communication with the Indians during the whole time of my administration, except through their agents, up to the time we went on that expedition.

The expenses of the general department have been those of a peace establishment, with the exception of a small quantity of forage sent to places where they had none, and with the exception also of four hundred Kansas volunteers, who will not be paid until Congress appropriates the funds. Our troops have had no remount this year. The expenses of transporting goods this year is much less than ever before.

Of hostile warriors the general estimates that the Cheyenne number about 100, the Arapahoes 400, and the Kiowas 800. There are but few Apaches on the plains probably 400 or 500. Fifteen hundred or two thousand will cover all engaged between the Arkansas and the Platte, that is, leaving out the Comanches, who number about 3,000.

HOLT VS JOHNSON.—If President Johnson had not already fallen so low in public estimation that men feel that he can hardly injure himself or disgrace the country by anything he can do, it would be a matter of general regret and shame that he has been guilty of lying. For there is no longer a question of veracity between Mr. Johnson and Mr. Holt, in regard to the recommendation of Mrs. Surratt to mercy. The President asserts that he never saw the document, and did not know of its existence until two months ago. Judge Holt asserts that the document was submitted to the President, and that Mr. Johnson consulted with him (Holt) on the subject of this recommendation. If this were all the evidence, the man who took his oath of office as Vice President in a drunken spree, and by whom the dispatches of General Sheridan were mutilated, could hardly expect that his word would have much weight against that of one of the purest and most honorable men in the land. But other proof is published. Conversations held by Mr. Johnson, in which he referred particularly to the case of Mrs. Surratt, are detailed. There can be no doubt that the statement of Judge Holt is strictly correct, and that Mr. Johnson has added falsehood to his other offences. It has been repeatedly asked why the President was so anxious to put this woman to death. The question receives with more force than ever, in view of this recommendation to mercy, and especially in connection with his attempt to hide the fact that such a paper was presented to him.—St. Louis Democrat.

JOHNSONIAN JOY.—A Washington dispatch of Sept 7th says:

At least half a dozen private dispatches have been received here to-day from California, announcing that the State has gone Democratic, the Democrats electing a Governor, the Legislature, and two out of three members of Congress. The California Johnson politicians and lobbyists here are highly elated, and have been swarming the White House all day, heaping congratulations on the President, and urging him to stand firm. The President immediately had the dispatches sent to several Democratic meetings in Ohio, where Vallandigham and Pendleton were speaking

FRIDAY MORNING OCTOBER 4 1867

Practical Repudiation

Advices from Europe published in the telegraphic dispatches allude to United States funds as rather desponding owing to the agitation of the payment of bond in greenbacks It is regarded as the first step toward repudiation This is the effect of the position assumed by the leaders of the Democratic party, demanding that the Government after having promised to pay its debts and succeeded in raising money on the faith of those promises at a time when it was in its greatest need, shall now disown its obligations, and instead of paying its debts according to agreement, go through the farce of paying them by new issues of paper, swelling entirely beyond conception the volume of our already redundant currency

Of the bonds which it is proposed to pay off in greenbacks, there are outstanding about $1 100, 000,000 According to this new Democratic system of finance all that it is necessary to do to pay them, is for the Government to set its printing presses at work to manufacture new supplies of greenbacks Thus the political party which professes to be so greatly opposed to paper currency and which has continually denounced its issue in every form, has changed its policy and would now put in circulation a quantity of green backs about twice as large as the paper currency now afloat. During the rebellion they could not shake the faith of the people in the Government so as to induce them to withhold from it their money; but they would now punish them for coming to its rescue at that critical period and advancing the money which overthrew the rebel Confederacy. The Northern allies of the rebellion could not prevent the triumph of the Government, but they would now repudiate the debt which was incurred in bringing the rebels to submission.

That this proposition is practical repudiation must be clear to every one who gives it a moment's attention. The transaction would begin by paying in depreciated paper a debt that the Government has promised to pay in gold. The immense issues of greenbacks that would be required to pay off the bonds would depreciate the paper currency at once to the value of the old continental money. Already there are $360,000,000 of greenbacks in circulation Of national bank notes there are $300,000,000 more. Taking into consideration the present volume of paper currency and the value of greenbacks, what do the repudiators suppose greenbacks would be worth after a sufficient amount of them to pay off the bonds according to their plan, were added to the quantity now in circulation? The holders of national securities would realize nothing The paper would be valueless Such a policy would be rank repudiation

But this scheme, dishonorable and ruinous as it is, is being advocated simultaneously by Democratic leaders in all parts of the country. The telegraph apprised us of this some time ago, and the country is now being flooded with speeches by the advocates of the scheme, who hope by their sophistry to influence the coming elections It is the most dishonorable of the many shameful schemes which that party has broached. Of course their journals here advocate it, else they would not be consistent in their wrong doing and folly. When a measure of this kind is seriously talked of by a large party among us, it is no wonder that the movement is looked on in Europe as "a step toward repudiation"

Those who think that to pay our debt it is only necessary for the Government to set its presses at work printing greenbacks, seem to have about the same idea of finance which James II. exhibited. After that monarch had lost his English throne he still endeavored to maintain his power in Ireland. Finding his coffers empty he conceived the project of creating a supply of money sufficient to extricate himself from his embarrassments simply by calling a farthing a shilling By his order his mint was set at work upon kettles, cracked bells, pieces of ordnance and unserviceable scraps of base metals of all sorts, and a royal edict declared the coinage a legal tender in all cases of debt. To prevent evasions of the law and to render the success of the brilliant scheme certain, prices were regulated by the magistrates, and James supposed that in his wisdom he had devised a perfect remedy for the poverty of his exchequer and adopted a most efficacious method for relieving the burdens of the people and enhancing the prosperity of his kingdom The Democratic scheme of paying off our bonds by issuing greenbacks and compelling bond-holders to accept them in place of the money they expected to receive, is, in point of folly, but another project of this kind. In point of wickedness it is far worse, for James did not attempt to pay a debt he had already incurred and which he promised to pay in good money, with the base productions of his mint. But our Republican financiers propose to pay a great debt with that which is itself only a promise to pay, or, in other words, after the country has agreed to pay money, they advise it to repudiate its own promises.

The people feel the weight of their financial burdens, but they are not ready for this dishonor Any proposition which looks toward a violation of the national faith by any of these direct or indirect methods, should bring immediate reprobation upon its authors They who propose these schemes are the very last persons who should complain of the burden of the debt. It was their unpatriotic course which prolonged the war and caused the debt to become twice as large as it otherwise would have been, and they ought to bear without murmuring the evils which their recreancy to duty has brought upon them.

Those who insist that the rebels have constitutional rights which are violated by the reconstruction acts, differ very essentially in their views from their leader, Jefferson Davis Not long ago Davis was asked what the opinion of the Southern people was in regard to the measures of Congress, when he replied "We have nothing to do with it." The rebel leader is right for once It is not their business or their right to say what shall be done

THE NEW FINANCIAL SCHEME —The New York Nation has the following in regard to the recent proposition to repudiate the national debt by paying it off in greenbacks

Their plan as even propounded by such a man as Mr. Pendleton, is to pay off the five-twenty bonds by a fresh issue of greenbacks, which is very like paying them off in draughts of spring water, so as to relieve the country of the burden of interest The beauty of the plan is, that it would relieve the country of the burden of the principal, too, as the probabilities are that after the operation the outstanding greenbacks might be bought in at the rate of one cent in nickel for each dollar bill. The advantages of such a conversion must therefore, be apparent to the most obtuse financier How ever, we would go further than Mr Pendleton We see no good reason why the Government, when issuing greenbacks for the payment of the five twenty bonds, should not also present each head of a family with five thousand dollars at the same moment In this way every man would be placed in possession of more money than nine hundred and ninety nine out of every thousand ever had before, and much discomfort and discontent be removed, and the forebodings of the European aristocrats as to the future of our working classes be forever silenced The Democratic party has, during its career, supported slavery, secession and foreign interference It only remains for it to become the advocate of polygamy in order to have sounded every known depth of political infamy.

MURDER BY INDIANS.—We received, last evening the following news of the attack by Indians upon Mr J H Scott and his wife, of Burnt river. The letter containing the news is dated Express Ranch, Sept. 29th and says: "This afternoon, Mr J H Scott and wife, while on their way from Rye Valley to their home on Burnt river, were both shot by Indians, but were not killed Whether they are mortally wounded or not, I am not able to say How many Indians there were is not known. Mr. Moore came this far on his way to Auburn for a doctor, but said if a man would go from here, he would go to Rye Valley and raise a party to go in pursuit of the "red devils" Mr Burkee's son mounted a fresh horse and started for the doctor By daylight tomorrow morning there will be a party armed with Henry rifles on the Indian trail, and if it is possible to follow it they will not leave it without getting a scalp The party that will go are the same men that should have the praise of capturing the four thieves who robbed the Franchmen, instead of the party that got it. By the way, the thieves have made good their escape and are pretty well armed, having two double-barreled shot guns and a Spencer rifle, and plenty of money, so says report"

We have some further and later particulars, from Mr Frank Ellsworth, who arrived from Idaho and eastern Oregon last evening Mr Scott had his family in a wagon when the Indians fired upon them. He was shot in two or three places and fell in the wagon Mrs. Scott was also shot in two places, but not so badly hurt as was her husband. She immediately seized the reins and drove as rapidly as possible to the nearest point of safety, Mr. Scott has since died of his wounds and it was thought that Mrs. Scott could not live The place where the attack was made was about three miles off the road Mrs Scott saw but one Indian, though there must have been more to fire so many shots in so brief a time.

A DRAWER, NOT HARPER'S.—A correspondent contributes the following, for which and similar relations, he thinks a special home "Drawer" should be established:

A prominent politician of Columbia county, talking of the national situation, said, "the Constitution has lost its essence"—meaning, I suppose, its old smell of "sig gar." In another conversation, he said. "We hain't got no constitution now; the government hain't got nothin to rat onto, everything must have sothin to rat onto, or it can't stand.... In Cowlitz county, W. T., an old Democrat, speaking of some charge against Stanton, said, "It's true, I know; for I've got the skeletons to prove it"—meaning statistics; near enough for a Democrat. The same man once said, "the emancipation proclamation is all right enough, but I don't like freedin' the n'gers"..... A young lady formerly living at Astoria, but now residing elsewhere, was lately exhibiting a photograph album to a knowing young fellow who had once visited the seaport of Oregon. Meeting with a picture which particularly struck his fancy, he inquired, "Who is that?" "That is Henry Ward Beecher," replied the young lady. "O, yes," says smarty, "I saw him when I was at Astoria."

AN OFFICIAL TOUR OF THE COUNTY.—The County Commissioners of Multnomah county, a few days since made a visit to the various parts of the county, for the purpose of inspecting the public roads as to the amount of work done and the manner of doing it. They found that during the summer an unusually large amount of work has been done, and that the roads are in a better condition probably than ever before. They find a disposition, everywhere, to have the public thoroughfares improved in a substantial and permanent manner, with less grudging regard to cost than heretofore The commissioners also made it a part of their business to visit locations offered for a county poor house and farm—to learn the advantages of each location and the comparative cost of building, etc Nothing definite in this behalf has been decided upon, but several projects are under consideration. They are satisfied, as are most others, that a pauper home and farm can be supported at less than the present cost of supporting the poor of the county.

ACCIDENT TO THE "SENATOR."—Yesterday morning, as the steamer Senator was nearly opposite the old tannery, this side the Fulton House, her shaft broke, letting one end of her wheel down, breaking the connecting rods, and raising a tremendous racket generally. Captain Baughman, who was at the wheel, says when the shaft broke, he thought from the noise there must be about fourteen hundred large sized cargo's rambling through the boat's hull, astern. The engines were, of course, instantly stopped, when the wind blew the boat over to the west shore, where she is now tied up. The Captain walked down to the city just in time to secure the Rescue, which was about to start for Milwaukie. After making his return trip from Oregon City, he went up again on the Rescue after the Alert which will take the place of the Senator till damages can be repaired.

THE RAILROAD MEETING AT HILLSBORO.—At the public meeting at Hillsboro on the 27th ult., to consider the project of a railroad from Portland through the Willamette valley, on the west side of the river, the following resolution was read and discussed. It had already been adopted by the Directors of the Oregon Central Railroad Company:

Resolved, That we locate the Oregon Central Railroad on the nearest and best route, taking into consideration the inducements offered on the different proposed routes, and the advantages for trade and business: Provided, that the main road shall never cross to the east side of the Willamette river, and, Provided further, that said road shall run through the Tualatin Plains, in Washington county, Oregon.

THE "FALKINBURG."—The San Jose A. Falkinburg, Capt. James H. Gregg, arrived yesterday morning from the Sandwich Islands. She left Honolulu Sept. 14th; on the 21st and 23d, experienced heavy gales from the Southeast and Southwest; anchored off the Columbia bar on the 29th; crossed the bar Oct. 1st, and arrived in tow by the steamer Bunger, morning of 3d. It will be seen her trip hither was made in fourteen days from Honolulu to the bar. Her outward trip was made in thirteen days, between those points. Her cargo consists of 1 552 kegs sugar and 76 sks rice to Allen & Lewis and 208 kegs sugar to McCraken, Merrill & Co. The Camden from Honolulu to San Francisco experienced the same gales as are mentioned by Capt. Gregg.

GOOD TEMPLARS.—On September 18th, Capt. E. G. Adams organized a lodge of thirteen charter members on Dumbish river, six miles from Seattle, King Co., W. T. The following is the list of officers: Russell C. Graves, W. C. T.; Miss Eliza J. Smith, W. V. T.; Mrs Mary A. Cavanaugh, W. L. T.; Mrs Lydia M. Graves, W. F. T.; Mrs. Sarah Bird, W. A. S.; Aaron Mercer, W. F. S.; Charles A Montgomery, W. T.; John W Maple, W. M.; Mrs. Ann M. Mercer, W. I. G.; Israel Martin, W. O. D.; Manfield A. Hicks, W. C.; John Martin, P. W. The Grand Lodge has appointment as Grand Lecturer, Capt. Adams has organized in all, twenty-four lodges—sixteen in Oregon and eight in Washington Territory.

THE GOOD TIMES COMING.—Speaking of the railroad meeting at Hillsboro, the editor of the Courier says:

"We then talked for a few minutes, and the meeting adjourned; all seeming to be satisfied that the Oregon Central Railroad is a fixed fact; and that soon will be heard the shrill whistle and deep inspiration of her locomotive dashing through our productive valley, bringing the sophyrs and odoriferous breeze of happiness, and conveying our back-market, into the sunny smiling region of prosperity." So it seems there is almost a unanimity certainty that "we may be happy yet" When those "zephyrs" and odoriferous breezes of happiness" begin really to waft, wont there be ecstacy in Yamhill?

RECORDER'S COURT.—In the Recorder's Court, yesterday, the following proceedings were had: Two Chinawomen charged with keeping a bawdy house, and on examination, the testimony being mostly Chinese, and were held to answer the charge before the next grand jury At the request of the Prosecuting Attorney, bail was not fixed, and the parties were ordered to appear this morning to give bonds. Jas. Kafki had an examination on the charge of an assault with a deadly weapon—a colt's revolver—upon M. Peter. The defendant was held to answer in the sum of $250 Another charge against the same defendant—threatening to kill M Peter—will be examined this morning.

ARRESTED.—George Bartley, one of the men accused of robbing James Hoon of $160, a few nights since, was arrested last evening by officer Brannan and confined in the county jail. A search of his person was made at the jail and no money whatever was found in any of his pockets; but Mr. Ward, who was not quite satisfied with an examination of his pockets, proceeded to feel about his clothing, when he discovered a purse with $26, secreted from the fellow's cravat, inside of his clothing. Bartley will probably have an examination to day

PERSONAL.—Mr. Frank Ellsworth, formerly of this city, and late of San Francisco, the Humboldt road, Idaho, and numberless other places, arrived last evening from one of the aforementioned towns, in a state of excellent preservation, considering the temptations the Indians must have had to relieve him of his hair Frank is traveling in the Life Insurance business, for the Man hattan Co. If his stays here long, we shall feel it our duty to have our life insured.

RAILROAD SURVEY.—Mr Lewis with a corps of assistants will, this morning, commence the preliminary surveys for the purpose of locating the line of the Oregon Central Railroad. The first labor of the company will be an examination of all the available lines or routes leading from the city of Portland to the South and Southwest The first line examined will be that upon the old Canyon road from Portland west to the Tualitan plains.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—The Portland Philharmonic Society, within the last few days, have forwarded an order to Chickering & Sons, New York for one of their new and a quarter octave full grand pianos, for the use of the society The cost of the instrument, delivered here, will be about $1,000

FAIR AT ASTORIA.—Mr Gray informs us that a big fair was held—by the fair sex, of course—at Astoria, last Tuesday evening, for the benefit of the Congregational church. There were about two hundred visitors, and the funds realized, reached the sum of four hundred dollars.

TEMPERANCE ADDRESS.—Hon J H Mitchell will deliver a temperance lecture at Milwaukie, this evening, at the invitation of Milwaukie Lodge I O O T We learn that other speakers will also address the audience

ELECTION OF FOREMAN.—At a regular meeting of Multnomah Engine Co No 2, last week, Mr Jos. Buchtel tendered his resignation as foreman of the company Mr. T. B Trevitt was elected to fill the vacancy

THE "SAN MERRITT."—When the Ranger with the Falkinburg, came up yesterday, she passed the San Merrill under sail at Woody Island She is loaded with general merchandise for Portland

HOUR OF SAILING.—The steamship Orizimmo will sail to-morrow at 11 o'clock A. M., for San Francisco

MESSAGE.—There is a message at the telegraph office for Mrs. M. C. Prior.

HONOLULU PAPERS.—We are indebted to Capt. Gregg of the Falkinburg, for files of Honolulu papers to the 14th ult, the day of sailing.

$1,000 REWARD, AND WE MEAN IT.—Harman Bros have a larger stock of clothing than any retail house in Portland, and there is not a house in the city which can or does sell one per cent or any other per cent cheaper If anybody can show to the contrary, Harman Bros hereby agree to forfeit to him $1,000 This offer will be kept open for eight days—in any deposited at Ladd & Tilton's bank Will any clothing house dare accept our challenge?

A NEW SAN FRANCISCO FIRM.—It will be seen by advertisement in another column, Post Messrs A B Felt & Co, late of this city, have become successors to the well known firm of Seligman & Co., of San Francisco The same gentlemen are also connected with a New York house and will carry on a general importing and wholesale business in dry goods, clothing, etc

OWYHEE MINING ITEMS.

The Avalanche of the 28th ult contains the following

At the meeting of the stockholders of the Oro Fino & Morning Star Mining Company, on the 17th inst., the Trustees, R. Webb, A. Goodman, H. Gove, A. J. Sands and Svale Nelson were re-elected. They presented an elaborate report of the mine, etc., of which our limited space this week forbids anything more than a cursory mention. Work was commenced in the mine April 28th, since which time, two shafts have been sunk of 92 and 67 feet respectively, 1,134 tons of ore have been taken out, and up to the 15th inst, 1,050 tons had been crushed, which yielded $54,191. The total amount of expenditures of working the mine, including repairs, incidental expenses, etc, amounted to $15,505, besides other liabilities amounting to $12,476, from which must be deducted about $8,000, value of supplies on hand necessary for working the mill, such as fuel, quicksilver, oils, acids, etc., including 7,000 lbs shoes and dies. The Company by-laws were revised and amended; one amendment allows the Trustees to expend, for the benefit of the Company, any sum under but not exceeding $100,000 instead of $15,000 as heretofore. At a subsequent meeting of the Trustees the following officers were chosen: R. Webb, President; A. Goodman, Treasurer, A. J. Sands, Superintendent, and H. Gove, Secretary; for which, acting as such, the annexed salaries were allowed: President, $1,500 per annum; Treasurer, $1,500 per annum; Superintendent, $300 per month; and Secretary $500 per month. Altogether, the affairs of the company are in a very healthy state. They are now ready to stope out and work a new level of seventy feet, and can equally they will take out much larger quantities of ore than before. A clean up from seventy tons of ore last Saturday, yielded $16,327, and to-morrow they will probably clean up nearly as much, which, added to the amount above reported, will make an aggregate yield of about $25,000 since the 28th day of April, leaving about $25,000 in the Treasury, with every thing in good shape for future working.

The Black Mill is now employed on Leviathan ore. The Iowa Mill is nearly completed, and will be well supplied with Rising Star quartz. This mine has been leased to the Iowa Company for a limited time, and the best of the time will be made. General McQueen, Superintendent, is giving employment to a force of men in the mine day and night, and will ere long have several months' supply of pay ore out. The lodge at the point of present work is full fifteen feet wide, and in taking it out makes a shaft wide enough for a double set of miners and two windlasses overhead. There being such an immense quantity of quartz, only a very rich quality is treated as first-class, and the remainder as second and third class.

A Great Ditch Enterprise.

The Idaho World of the 28th ult., has the following:

Some weeks ago we gave information, derived from Mr. Ben. Wilson of Pioneer City, of the then projected elevation of the line and extension of the noted Big Ditch, which has for years supplied most of the hill and gulch and bar diggings about Pioneer with water. This ditch is owned—one-half by Mr. Wilson, the other half by Wm. L. Law, of Centerville, and O. G. Waterman, of Pioneer. From Mr. Law, who was in town on Wednesday, we learned that the work on this important enterprise has been actively carried forward for several weeks, and that before the winter sets in the ditch will be completed. The plan of the work is—to change the the course of the ditch from the old line; to reduce the scale of the grade from one inch to one-half inch per rod; to flume and tunnel so as to obviate the running of long, tortuous lines around spurs and gulches, and make a direct, shorter line of ditching, and to extend it to the divide beyond Bummer Hill, which separates Centerville diggings from Granite Creek so that the water shall supply all the mines along the ditch from far above Pioneer to the gulches which sink into Granite creek, under the divide mentioned just above—a total of nearly nine miles. Within this scope are the rich diggings on Bummer Hill, near Centerville, and an extensive area of ground known to be rich in gold, but which has heretofore lain idle because of lack of water to work it.

To complete this important work, there will have to be about 2,800 feet of fluming, some of it with spans about 20 feet high above the earth, and between 800 and 900 feet of tunnelling. Contracts for building the flumes and for cutting the tunnels have been let, and the contractors are hurrying on the work, so that no delay shall be caused in the proposed opening of the ditch for use early next spring, at the commencement of the mining season. Precaution has been taken by the owners to have these flumes and tunnels so constructed and grieved that they can, if it becomes necessary, double the capacity of the water flow.

The estimated volume to flow in the ditch, when completed on the scale now projected, is 1,000 inches. Should this be found insufficient, the volume can be doubled with comparatively little labor, and without disturbing the new line of work now going on. When completed, the ditch will be about thirteen miles in full length, from its initial point on Grimes' creek to its terminus above Granite creek divide.

As we have before had occasion to remark, this ditch will cause a vastly improved condition of trade in Pioneer and Centerville, and will make the latter one of the loveliest and most prosperous camps of the Basin. The fresh diggings to which the ditch will afford plenty of water will give good paying employment to hundreds of miners, and we hope that care will be taken that they shall be white men, not Mongolians.

We have but little confidence in the trumpet tongued statements of the proprietors of advertised medicines generally, but we are forced to concur in the opinion, uniformly expressed by all who have used PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER, that it is a very valuable article, and one that it would be well for every household to have at hand, in case of bruises, scalds, burns, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera, fever and ague, and the host of diseases, external and internal, which it is adapted to cure or alleviate. No article of medicine ever attained to such unbounded popularity and extensive diffusion It has penetrated to every part, even the most remote, of the known world, bearing with it its healing influences more potent than those of the spices of "Araby the blest." We are informed by our principal druggists, that they sell more of this article for exportation than any or all others, and that the demand is constantly increasing.—Salem Observer.

BRONCHITIS OR CHRONIC SORE THROAT.—It is attended with irritation of the bronchial tubes, which convey the air we breathe into the lungs. This irritation produces sore throat, hoarseness, coughing, and sometimes spitting of matter streaked with blood. If it is neglected it will extend down to the lungs, and settle into confirmed consumption. ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will be found a most valuable remedy for curing this disease, and prevent its running into Consumption.—Sold by dealers in family medicines generally.

When the Rights to the Counties of MARION, POLK, LINN, LANE, BENTON, JACKSON, JOSEPHINE, DOUGLAS, UMPQUA, COOS and CURRY will be offered for sale by my Agent.
The advantages of this gate may be summed up in this brief statement
1st—being on a perfect balance and resting on a center near the base, and between two posts, as may be seen in the diagram, there is no tendency to sag the posts from a perpendicular; it thus avoids the inconvenience so often experienced with the swing gate, that of dragging on the ground after a few days use.
2d—It opens vertically and out of the way of the snow, mud and stones, requiring no additional space when open
3d—It admits of more secure and cheaper fastening, while it is also a stronger gate than any other of the same amount of lumber
4th—It can be easily opened from a carriage, without leading the horse or getting out, and even the field gate, without lovers, can be opened easily by any one on horseback, and without leaving a team
5th—It is not only the most convenient gate, but can be made 50 per cent cheaper than any other kind now in use

Another Blast from Carlyle

The extension of suffrage and the general progress towards democracy in England vex the heart of the old hero-worshiper, Thomas Carlyle, and he has again lifted his pen in warning and in threatening prophecy, in an article with the quaint and expressive title, "Shooting Niagara: and after?" He predicts three degrees of degradation to come from what others call progress, thus:

1. Democracy to complete itself, to go to the full length of its course, toward the bottomless or into it, no power now extant to prevent it or even considerably retard it—till we have seen where it will lead us to, or whether there will then be any return possible, or none. Complete "liberty" to all persons; count of heads to be the divine court of appeal on every question and interest of mankind; count of heads to choose a parliament according to its own heart at last, and sit with penny newspapers zealously watching the same; said parliament, so chosen and so watched, to do what trifle of legislating and administering may still be needed in such an England, with its hundred and fifty millions "free" more and more to follow each his own nose, by way of guidepost in this intricate world.

2. That, in a limited time, say fifty years hence, the church, all churches and so-called religions, the Christian religion itself, shall have deliquesced—into "liberty of conscience," progress of opinion, progress of intellect, philanthropic movement, and other aqueous residues, of a vapid, hadly-scented character—and shall, like water spilt upon the ground, trouble nobody considerably thenceforth, but evaporate at its leisure.

3. That, in lieu thereof, there shall be free trade, in all senses, and to all lengths, unlimited free trade—which some take to mean, "free racing," ere long with unlimited speed, in the career of cheap and nasty—this beautiful career, not in shop goods only, but in all things temporal, spiritual and eternal, to be flung generously open, wide as the portals of the universe; so that everywhere, "under enlightened popular suffrage," the race shall be to the swift, and the big office shall fall to him who is ablest, if not to do it, at least to get elected for doing it.

This is what Carlyle means by England's shooting Niagara. The consequences are to be general anarchy and, cheap nastiness. He borrows from the Germans the word "swarmery," to describe what he considers the popular madness now pursuing its course quite irresistably, as he confesses. How magnificently he pours his contempt upon it:

Some big queen bee is in the center of the swarm; but any commonplace, stupid bee, Cleon the Tanner, Beales, John of Leyden, John of Dromwibnan, any bee whatever, if he can happen, by noise or otherwise, to be chosen for the function, will straightway get fatted and inflated into bulk, which of itself means complete capacity; no difficulty about your queen bee; and the swarm once formed, finds itself impelled to action, as with one heart and one mind. Singular, in the case of human swarms, with what perfection of unanimity and quasi-religious conviction the stupidest absurdities can be received as axioms of Euclid, nay as articles of faith, which you are not only to believe, unless malignantly insane, but are, if you have any honor or morality, to push into practice, and quam primum see done, if your soul would live. Divine commandment to vote ("Manhood suffrage"—horsehood, doghood ditto not yet treated of); universal "glorious liberty" (to sons of the devil in overwhelming majority, as would appear); count of heads the God-appointed way to rule universe, all other ways devil-appointed, in one brief word, which includes whatever of palpable incredibility and delirous absurdity, universally believed, can be uttered or imagined, on these points "the equality of men," any man equal to any other; Quashee nigger to Socrates or Shakespeare, Judas Iscariot to Jesus Christ; and Bedlam and Gehenna equal to the New Jerusalem, shall we say? If these things are taken up, not only as axioms of Euclid, but as articles of religion, burning to be put in practice for the salvation of the world—I think you will admit that "swarmery" plays a wonderful part in the heads of poor mankind; and that very considerable results are likely to follow from it in our day.

Of course America and the folly of the emancipation of the negro, the born servant of mankind, come in as happy illustrations of the folly of swarmery:

By far the notable results of swarmery, in these times, is that of the late American war, with the settlement of the nigger question for result. Essentially the nigger question was one of the smallest, and in itself did not much concern mankind in the present time of struggles and hurries. One always rather likes the nigger; evidently a poor blockhead, with good dispositions, affections, attachments—with a turn for nigger melodies, and the like; he is the only savage of all the colored races that doesn't die out on sight of the white man, but can actually live beside him, and work and increase and be merry. The Almighty Maker has appointed him to be a servant. * * * servantship, like all solid contracts between men like wedlock itself, which was once nomadic enough, temporary enough,) must become a contract of permanency, not easy to dissolve, but difficult extremely—a "contract for life," if you can manage it, will evidently be the best of all. And this was already the nigger's essential position. Mischief, irregularities, injustices did probably abound between the nigger and buckra; but the poisonous taproot of all mischief, and impossibility of fairness, humanity or well doing in the contract, never had been there! Of all else the remedy was easy in comparison; vitally important to every just man concerned in it; and, in all obstructions was gradually getting itself done. To me individually the nigger's case was not the most pressing in the world, but among the races of America, however, had got into swarmery upon it (not America's blame either, but in great part ours, and that of the nonsense we sent over to them); and felt that in the heavens or the earth there was nothing so god-like, or incomparably necessary to be done. Their energy, their valor, their &c., &c., were worthy of the stock they sprung from: and now poor fellows, done it in with a witness. A continent of the earth has been submerged, for certain years, by deluges as from the pit of hell, half a million (some say a whole million, but surely they exaggerate) of excellent white men, full of life and faculty, have slit one another into horrid death, in a temporary humor, which will leave centuries of remembrance, fierce enough; and three million blanks, men and brothers (of a sort), are completely "emancipated," launched into the career of improvement—likely to be "improved off the face of the earth" in a generation or two! That is the dismal prediction to me, of the warmest enthusiast to their cause whom I have known of American men—who doesn't regret his great efforts either, in the great cause now won, cause incomparably the most important on earth or in heaven at this time. Papae, papae; wonderful indeed!

POOR ANDY.—The New York Tribune illustrates President Johnson's peculiar attitude toward the people in the following incisive fashion:

Mr. Johnson still has faith in the people, but grieves that they don't deserve his confidence. This recalls the story of a U. S. Marshal in Boston, who during the war ridiculed the idea of arming the freedmen, and predicted that they would carry their muskets over to the rebels. "Why," said he, "when I was Fugitive Slave Commissioner I was hunting for a nigger, and couldn't find him. So one day I went down to his house and saw his wife. 'Now look here,' says I, 'I'm a Fugitive Slave Commissioner, and I can't find your husband, Jim. His old master's come up from Virginia after him, and I want you to have him here at ten o'clock to morrow, punctual. Will you do it?' 'I will, massa,' says she. 'Honor bright?' says I. 'Golly, massa, sure as I live I will.' Well, what do you think," indignantly continued the Marshal, "the next day I went down again, and couldn't find neither of 'em. That's it. Just like these niggers. Can't rely on 'em." And so he turned away, like Mr. Johnson, a much injured man, the victim of misplaced confidence.

ORIGIN OF THE FLOATING ICEBERGS IN THE ATLANTIC.—The valleys of Greenland are filled with glaciers, of which some have an enormous extent. They are always in motion, gliding downward like rivers of nearly solid matter, which have their outlet in the sea, only their motion is exceedingly slow, not exceeding one hundred feet for the whole summer season. The lower extremities of these glaciers, reaching the ocean, are buoyed up by the deep water, and thus are broken off from the rest of the mass, when they slowly drift away to the South. They sometimes have an extent of several miles, and are really mountains of ice—icebergs—of which about seven-eighths are in the water and less than one-eighth is exposed above the surface. These floating ice mountains often carry enormous blocks of rock, torn from the mountain sides along which they have moved, and drop those rocks when and where the iceberg is finally lost. In this way geologists explain how boulders and erratic rocks happen to be found where there are no similar formations—namely, by icebergs, at a time before the present surface of the continents were upheaved from the depths of the ocean.

Cession of Russian America.

HEAD QUARTERS MIL. DIV. OF THE PACIFIC, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Sept. 25, 1867.

GENERAL ORDERS, No 26.

I The following treaty, concerning the cession of the Russian Possessions in North America by His Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias to the United States of America, is published for the information of all concerned:

The United States of America and His Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, being desirous of strengthening, if possible, the good understanding which exists between them, have for that purpose, appointed as their Plenipotentiaries the President of the United States, William H. Seward, Secretary of State; and His Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, the Privy Counselor Edward de Stoeckel, his Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States.

And the said Plenipotentiaries, having exchanged their full powers, which were found to be in due form, have agreed upon and signed the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

His Majesty the Emperor of all the Russ as agrees to cede to the United States, by this convention, immediately upon the exchange of the ratifications thereof, all the territory and dominion now possessed by his said Majesty on the continent of America and in the adjacent Islands, the same being contained within the geographical limits herein set forth, to wit: The eastern limit is the line of demarkation between the Russian and the British Possessions in North America, as established by the convention between Russia and Great Britain, of February 28-16, 1825, and described in Articles III and IV of said convention, in the following terms:

"Commending from the southernmost point of the Island called Prince of Wales Island, which point lies in the parallel of 54 degrees 40 minutes north latitude, and between the 131st and the 133d degree of west longitude, (meridian of Greenwich,) the said line shall ascend to the north along the channel called Portland channel, as far as the point of the continent where it strikes the 56th degree of north latitude: from this last mentioned point, the line of demarkation shall follow the summit of the mountains situated parallel to the coast as far as the point of intersection of the 141st degree of west longitude, (of the same meridian;) and finally, from the point of intersection, the said meridian line of the 141st degree, in its prolongation as far as the Frozen Ocean.

"IV. With reference to the line of demarkation laid down in the preceding article, it is understood—

"1st. That the island called Prince of Wales Island shall belong wholly to Russia," (now, by this cession, to the United States.)

"2d. That whenever the summit of the mountains which extend in a direction parallel to the coast from the 56th degree of north latitude to the point of intersection of the 141st degree of west longitude shall prove to be at the distance of more than ten marine leagues from the ocean, the limit between the British Possessions and the line of coast which is to belong to Russia as above mentioned (that is to say, the limit to the possession ceded by this convention) shall be formed by a line parallel to the winding of the coast, and which shall never exceed the distance of ten marine leagues therefrom."

The western limit within which the territories and dominion conveyed, are contained, passes through a point in Behring's straits on the parallel of sixty five degrees thirty minutes north latitude, at its intersection by the meridian which passes midway between the islands of Kruesenstern, or Ignelook, and the island of Ratmanoff, or Noonarbook, and proceeds due north, without limitation, into the same Frozen Ocean. The same western limit, beginning at the same initial point, proceeds thence in a course nearly southwest, through Behring's straits and Behring's sea, so as to pass midway between the northwest point of the island of St. Lawrence and the southeast point of Cape Choukotski, to the meridian of one hundred and seventy-two west longitude; thence, from the intersection of the meridian, in a southwesterly direction, so as to pass midway between the island of Attoo and the Copper Island of the Kormanderski couplet or group in the North Pacific ocean, to the meridian of one hundred and ninety-three degrees west longitude, so as to include in the territory conveyed the whole of the Aleutian Islands east of that meridian.

ARTICLE II.

In the cession of territory and dominion made by the preceding article are included the right of property in all public lots and squares, vacant lands, and all public buildings, fortifications, barracks and other edifices which are not private individual property. It is, however, understood and agreed, that the churches which have been built in the ceded territory by the Russian government, shall remain the property of such members of the Greek Oriental Church resident in the territory, as may choose to worship therein. Any government Archives, papers and documents relative to the territory and dominion aforesaid, which may be now existing there, will be left in the possession of the agent of the United States; but an authenticated copy of such of them as may be required, will be, at all times, given by the United States to the Russian governments, or to such Russian officers or subjects as they may apply for.

ARTICLE III.

The inhabitants of the ceded territory, according to their choice, reserving their natural allegiance, may return to Russia within three years; but if they should prefer to remain in the ceded territory, they, with the exception of uncivilized native tribes, shall be admitted to the enjoyment of all the rights, advantages and immunities of citizens of the United States, and shall be maintained and protected in the enjoyment of their liberty, property and religion. The uncivilized tribes will be subject to such laws and regulation, as the United States may, from time to time, adopt in regard to aboriginal tribes of that country.

ARTICLE IV.

His Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias shall appoint with all convenient dispatch, an agent or agents for the purpose of formally delivering to a similar agent or agents appointed on behalf of the United States, the territory, property, dependences and appurtenances which are ceded as above, and for doing any other act which may be necessary in regard thereto. But the cession, with the right of immediate possession, is nevertheless to be deemed complete and absolute on the exchange of ratifications, without waiting for such formal delivery.

ARTICLE V.

Immediately after the exchange of the ratification of this convention, any fortifications or military posts which may be in the ceded territory shall be delivered to the agent of the United States, and any Russian troops which may be in the territory shall be withdrawn as soon as may be reasonably and conveniently practicable.

ARTICLE VI.

In consideration of the cession aforesaid, the United States agree to pay at the treasury at Washington, within ten months after the exchange of the ratifications of this convention, to the diplomatic representative or other agent of his Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, duly authorized to receive the same, seven million two hundred thousand dollars in gold. The cession of territory and dominion herein made is hereby declared to be free and unincumbered by any reservations, privileges, franchises, grants, or possessions, by any associated companies, whether corporate or incorporate, Russian or any other, or by any parties, except merely private individual property holders; and the cession hereby made, conveys all the rights, franchises, and privileges now belonging to Russia in the said territory or dominion, and appurtenances thereto.

ARTICLE VII.

When this convention shall have been duly ratified by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, on the one part, and on the other by his Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, the ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington within three months from the date hereof, or sooner, if possible.

In faith whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed this convention, and thereto affixed the seals of their arms

Done at Washington, the thirtieth day of March in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven.

II. The foregoing treaty was ratified by the United States, May 28th, 1867; exchanged, June 20th, 1867, and proclaimed by the President of the United States, June 20th, 1867.

By order of Major General Halleck
JAMES B. FRY,
Assistant Adjutant General.

Official:
R E. De Russy,
1st Lieutenant, 2d Artillery,
A. D C.

The following will show that if Governor Andrew takes the Secretaryship of War, his views have undergone a great change. Said he, subsequent Andrew Johnson's 22d of February speech, on being asked if he had called yet on the President:

"No, sir; I had no official business to transact with the President, or I should have transacted it; but I can never have any personal relations with him while his insult to Senator Sumner is unretracted and unapologized for."

Sumner and Wilson on Grant

A correspondent of the Boston Advertiser has been talking to Senators Sumner and Wilson of Massachusetts on matters and things generally, and Grant in connection with the President and the War Department was discussed. Here is what Sumner says on the subject:

"I asked what his interpretation was of the action of Gen Grant in taking Stanton's place?

Sumner said it was difficult to explain. 'If there is any secret history to let in light upon it, I do not know it. There can be no military obligation on a General to assume a civil office. Grant might have refused and rebuked the country to the confusion of the President and the rebels. So, at least, it seems to me. Such a refusal would have been a notice that a patriot like Stanton should not be struck through him and would have helped to make the Presidential power less. It would have been notice also to the rebels that they could have no hope through him. I confess this is what I long for. Now is the time to speak out for our country. Every Presidential order signed by Grant is an encouragement to the old rebel spirit. But, while at the War Department, Grant is in a certain sense, what Lord Derby called himself the other day—'a stop gap.' He at least prevents a rebel from being thrust into the office. Stanton had confidence in him always; although Grant is so habitually reserved and taciturn that it is difficult to know his real position."

Wilson, on the same subject, says:

"I asked the opinion of Wilson as to the position of General Grant:

"Well," he replied, "my opinion is that Gen. Grant has taken the office for the sole purpose of trying to do what good he can to the country. I know that Stanton kept the office eighteen months for this purpose. I talked with him often about it, and, during the last session of Congress, in the presence of General Grant, Stanton said he would not be driven out of the office if he could help it—that he felt it his duty to do what he could for the country, and he said to me he had done some good and prevented much evil, and our friends," added Wilson, "will see, by and by, that General Grant and he were entirely in agreement in regard to the course of affairs. General Grant, as early as the Summer of 1863, when before Vicksburg, wrote a letter saying much as he wanted peace, he was opposed to any peace till we had emancipation in the country. During the last term, when Congress passed the Constitutional Amendment, he argued to all Southern men who came to him at Washington, warmly to adopt it. He stood entirely with Congress. During the whole time, when the Southern men came to him—such as Governor Orr of South Carolina, and other leading politicians—he told them to go to the Republican leaders in Congress—that they had the power—not to any Northern Copperhead, or have anything to do with them. He said that the men who opposed the war would never again be permitted to govern the country or have any part in its government; that the Southern men make a great mistake in looking to Northern Copperheads to aid them in getting back; that the more they looked to them the more exacting the Republicans would be and ought to be, and that his advice to them was to consult with Republicans and to adopt the Constitutional Amendment and to give universal suffrage; that the Republicans would exact it, and they ought to exact it. These were his views during the session of Congress. These are the reasons why I believe he is acting now from these motives. He was in favor and pressed on Congress the importance of meeting during the Summer. But Stanton and he concurred in this; his advice to members of Congress was always in this direction."

"I know this," continued Wilson, "that General Grant, like some other men who were behind the scenes, has been more anxious during the last twelve months about the condition of affairs than ever he was during the war, and so expressed himself. It was the same with Stanton. Now, in regard to what you ask about Grant's going in there, it is not a matter of belief but of knowledge to me, beyond any sort of doubt, that General Grant has entered on that duty to do what he could and save what he could for the country. And his position, like the position of Stanton, was misrepresented. Stanton felt keenly the criticisms of his friends, and now General Grant has the same feeling. He expects to be misunderstood; but he believes he is acting in the light of a public duty which he owes to the country, and holds grentur than anything else. My belief is that he is acting the part of a patriot, and the whole country will see it by and by, as they do now in the case of Stanton."
